Thus there has accumulated a debt which cannot be far short of a million dollars. In addition to this the Georgia owned $20,000 of the stock of the Macon and Augusta. It has thus had virtual control of the line for a long time. Several years ago the Georgia sook charge of the Macon and Augusta, and has since run it and managed its entire business. A few months ago it obtained a decree in Richmond superior court ordering the sale of the involved road. Yesterday was set as the time for the sale. There was a meeting of the directors in Augusta yesterday morning and the purchase of the Property was run once determined on. He certainly should be, as he is one of the best men that ever filled a similar position in this state. Mr. Hazlehurst will not take an active place in the menagement of the readactive place in the management of the road. The route has of course not been agreed on, but surveys will soon be made and then the route will be determined.

The terms of the transfer have never yet been made public, and indeed the public has been misled as to the real point of the difference between Governor Colquitt and the purchasers. The governor never declined to give a warranty deed to the purchasers. He was willing from the first to give the warranty as requested, but the trouble was that they declined to give to the governor a paper that he demanded, reciting that the warranty meant no more than the law authorized the governor to give, and thus limiting the warranty really to the intention of the legislature. As the purchasers declined to sign this guaranty, the trade was declared off for the time being.

Upon going to New York and having fuller consultation with the parties interested, the purchasers agreed to sign the papers asked for. The warranty was as follows: THE TERMS OF THE SALE.

1 "And the said party of the first part, the above described and hereby granted and released premises and every part and parcel thereof, with the arpurtenances unto the said party of the second part, its successors and assigns, against the said party of the first part and asgins, against all aud every person or persons whomsoever, lawrully claiming or to claim the same, shall and will warrant and by these presents forever defend."

The paper that the governor had drawn and signed and filed cotemporaneous with this as we find it in record on the executive office, is as follows:

poperty is, that the state is legally entitled to sell and convey and sells and conveys the same to us absolutely and in ree simple, upon the terms expressed.

2. It is understood by the parties receiving the conveyance that by the covenants and warranty contained therein, it is not intended by the executive to commit the state beyond the power conferred under the act and amendatory act, authorizing the sale of the Macon and Brunswick milroad, and the general laws of this state.

This paper was drawn by the governor or his counsel, and was intended to put the governor squarely in the position of an executive carrying out the law of the state, and as standing equally on that law—and of securing the understanding from the purchasers that they took the warranty with this condition.

In order to confirm the statement of the paper signed as above and filed contemporaneous with the other, and to dispel any suggestion that the governor was giving color by his action to the claim of the bondholders, the following letter was addressed by Governor Colquit to W. M. Johnson of the Macon and Brunswick road.

"Referring to a letter this day received from you, respecting a deed of conveyance to the Macon and Brunswick road made by me as governor of the state of Georgia, I have to say that by requiring such a statement I have not meant to cast any doubt upon the validity of the title. I have state of Georgia, I have to say that by requiring such a statement I have not meant to cast any doubt upon the validity of the title. I here state that in case the title is actively impeached by the holders of the $600,000 occulled indorsed bonds, that I will upon your request at either a regular or called session of the legislature, recommend the adoption of such measures as will protect your title and save you from any damage that may come to you by reason of the claims of the holders of the said bonds of the Macon and Brunswick road."

The people of Brunswick owe much in the matter of the sale of the road to Mr. Goodyear, of Brunswick.

THE TRANSPER OF THE M. & R.

Dr. Flewellen could not be found when the purchasers looked for him to serve the order of the governor, having gone in the country to see a sick friend, and the transfer was made by an order from two of the lessees. As soon as the purchasers obtained this order from the two commissioners to the superintendent, they took carriages and returned to the depot, where they presented the order to Colonel George W. Adams. He had no alternative but to make the formal transfer which he thereupor did.

Mr. Johnson, the new president of the road, at ence issued an order announcing the change in the management and the deeds were then sent to the court-house and transferred to the records. It is understood that the company represented by Mr. Paine, will now proceed to enter suit against the purchasers regularly in court of law. This seems to be their only course. The purchasers, however, feel not the stool that the second attempt to lease the first attempt to lease in the act; that the second attempt to lease was a violation of law; that the governor acted on the result of this Paine, will now proceed to enter suit against the purchasers regularly in court of law. This seems to be their only course, The purchasers, however, feel not the slightest uneasiness as to the result of this suit. As to the action of the holders of the $600,000 of alleged indorsed bonds, we are not yet advised as to what their action will be, or indeed whether or not they will take any saction. The opinion seems to be general that they have no sort of show, but that the sale of the road under the first mortgage bonds extinguished their rights completely and forever—besides the fact that the state for good and sufficient reasons repudiated the Mr. Paine went out as soon as possible to Judge Simmons, the hearing set for Thursday and the bond fixed at $250,000.

Mr. Paine went out as soon as possible to serve notice of the order on interested persons. He met Dr. Flewellen who had not signed the transfer, and served it on him Colonel Lofton was next hunted up and when the notice was presented Mr. Paine was informed that the road had been duly turned over, just a half hour before to the new owners. This ended the matter. Yesterday afternoon at ten minutes before six. Colonel Couper and Mr. W. M. Johnston drove up to the court house and left for record the lease and sale deeds from the state. They are executed in due form, signed by Governor Colquitt, countersigned by N. C. Barnett, secretary of state, attested by Colonel I. W. Avery and John Rhea, notary public, and also signed by Mr. W. M. Johnston and George H. Hazlehurst, president and secretary of the new company. The great seal of the state and the seal of the road is affixed to each document. The payment of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars was made in bonds of the state of Georgia. The deeds are very interesting documents. They have been recorded in the executive office and will be recorded in every county through which the road passes. The only proviso is that no lots of land now owned by the state in the counties of Pulaski, Dodge and Wayne, transferred with the road, except so much as is necessary for depots, right of way, etc.

No definite slate has yet been arranged for the future management of the road, and who the officers will be aside from the president has not yet transpired.

Colonel Hazlehurst, it is said, has his hands too full elsewhere to assume any active position even if it were tendered to him?

After diligent inquiry, also, we were assured that nothing definite has been decided upon, so far, as to the location of the extension. The route will be selected after the necessary surveys have been examined and passed upon.

the Louisville and Nashville railroad company, with its five thousand miles of road and $132,000,000 of capital, has a special interest for Charleston. Two weeks ago we were able to announce that Charleston was fully protected in the arrangements that had been made for the distribution of western business at Atlanta, and that Charleston would have equal opportunities with Savannah, the lines having their termini at the two south Atlantic ports working amicably together and standing on the same footing. Either the knowledge of this alliance, or the expectation of the completion of the Blue Ridge railroad and Spartanburg and Asheville railroad, or the formation of some other combition which has not yet been given to the public, has had the effect of improving the prospects of Charleston and placing this seaport in a promising position. The proof of this is found in the remarkable and rapid advance in the price of the securities of the South Carolina railroad.

It is evident that there is no rhyme or reason in paying from 2025 for South Carolina railroad stock, and 40245 for non-mortgage bonds, unless a way can be found to put an end to litigation and avert a sale of the road under a foreclosure of mortgage. Nor is this sufficient. There must be likewise an expectation of such increase of business as will enable the road to carry its present bond debt and make the stock of potential value. This increase can only come from the acquisition of or a close conpection with other lines, giving the assurance of a larger proportion of we term freights the n can be at present secured. The very life of the South Carolina railroad depends on Charleston, and we say, therefore, that the bright future of the road, as manufasted in the high price of its securities, points unerringly to growth and development for the cipy.

What is the precise plan of the capitalists who have taken hold of the South Carolina railroad has not been divulged. It will be noticed, however, that Mr. Newcomb speaks of having "or a rangement with the Loni Nashville, some tart of the south Carolina rollog alliance with the South Carolina railroad. This latter explains to a great extent the recent sharp demand for the scentrities of the Bouth Carolina roll, which is still apparent to day."

We are inclined to think, however, that what is contemplated is rather the consolidation of the South Carolina railroad with dation of the South Carolina railroad with the Greenville and Columbia railroad, and the building of the Blue Ridge railroad. This would give the Charleston and Anderson line an independent through route to the west, as powerful, as a competitor for western trade and travel as the Chattanooga economic necessity, inasmuch as the only connecting road of this class, at pres-

night, in which it seems an error was made in transmission:

The defendant in this case demanded that some part of the jury should be composed of his own race. The declarl of that motion was not a denial of the right secured to him by any law providing for the equal civil rights of the citizens of the United States, or by any statute, or by the 14th amendment. A mixed jury in any particular case is not essential to equal protection of laws. It is a right to which any colored man is entitled, that in the selection of jurors to pass upon his life, liberty, or property, there shall be no exclusion of his race because of color, but that is a different thing from what was claimed as of right and denied in the state court, viz: a right to have a jury composed in part of colored men. From these principals it follows that the federal court had no rightful jurisdiction of the case and that a writ of mandamus for the sectionation of prisoners to the state authorities must be granted and the court so ordered. Justice Strong delivered the opinion of the state authorities must be granted and the court of virginia, and J. D. Coles, petitioners. This was a petition for a writ of babean corpus to bring before this court the case of Judge Coles, of Virginia, indicted in the federal court for the western district of that state for violation of the act of March, 1875, in excluding colored citizens from jury lists on account of race and color. This court holds that the act under which Coles was indicted is fully authorized by the thirteenth and fourteenth amendments to the coorstitution and that it was fudge Coled duty to obey that act. If he failed to do so he was properly liable to indictment in the federal court. The petition for a writ of habeas corpus is therefore denied. Justice Strong delivered the opinion.

Justice Field, in a dissenting opinion concurred in by Justice Clifford, holds that the act under which petitioner was indicted, so far as it relates to jurors in state courts, is unconstitutional and void, and even if it were not, the indictment describes no offense under it, but is void on its face. State of Tennessee vs. Jas. M. Dayis. The question presented by this case is whether an internal revenue officer who kills a citizen of the state in self-defense, and while in the performance of his duty under the authority of the United States is near larvenue laws is entitled to have his case removed from the state court in which he has been indicted to the circuit court of the States in ternal revenue laws is entitled to have his case removed from the state court for the state in which he has been indicted to the circuit court of the United States. This court holds that he is so entitled; that the United States is a government with authority extending over the whole union; that it can act only through its officers and agents and they must also the federal court, and the state if when thus acting and within the scape of the Popular with both political sections, possessing the full confidence of all, it required his utmost exertions to stem and control the hot blood of opposing factions. No more pertinent compliment has been paid him than the one awarded by Emory Speer, whose keen relish for a political combat is proverbial: 'Blount is managing well," he remarked during the travail. Secretary Thompson then sent a further dispatch to Commodore Bryson, direct nghim to keep the department fully informed as to the health of the Marion, reporting all deaths and new cases. The lieutennant whose death on the 23d is given is Lieutenant John P. Wallis. He was born in Louisiana, was appointed a cadet midshipman from Maryland, and entered the Naval academy February 26th, 1864. He received his commission as lieutenant August 14, 1875. The apprentice (Rogers) who died on the 20th is John Rog ers, second class ordinary seaman. He enlisted in the navy December 24, 1877, at New York, and his home is on Staten Island. The cable message says: "Officers, except Like, well or convalescing." There is no officer in the navy named Like. It is evident the proper name is Harvey Wike, cadet midshipman, who is one of the officers of the Marion. The vessel stopped at Rio de Janeiro and took in coal, and it is evident took in the fever with the coal. She left New York in December last to join the Atlantic station. According to the treasury books William H. Vanderbilt is now the owner of thirty-one million five hundred thousand do'lers of registered four-per cent. bonds. It is said that he purchased twenty million dollers of these bonds at par. As their present market value is 107, Mr. Vanderbilt has already made a profit of one million four hundred thousand dollars upon his investment. Mr. Vanderbilt calculates that when the new refunding bill, which provides for a three anda half per cent bond, is passed, the fours will not self for less than 110, and of course the recent advance of the fours makes it highly improbable that the new bonds will bear a higher rate of interest than 3½, and perhaps the movement in favor of three per improbable that the new bonds will bear a higher rate of interest than 3½, and perhaps the movement in favor of three percent consols may be successful. Since January 1st, Surgeon Raines has visited all the convict camps in the state. At Colonel Lockett's camp, No. 2, pneumonia had prevailed as an epidemic with a loss of only four men. This camp has regained the usual health. Measles have been raging at the Carrollton camp for two months past with a loss of one man. At Old Town camp they had measles as an epidemic with a loss of one man. This camp is now in a healthy condition. The following camps were found to be in first rate order and without sickness: Fontenoy, in Greene county; Smith's camp, Oglethorpe county; Augusta, and Cedartown. BOOK NOTICES.

Moths. A Novel. By Quida. Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott & Co.

Outda has doffed a virtuous heroine in her new work, "Moths." It reveals a startling exhibition of French society under the present republic. Many well known characters of the beau as well as the demi-monde are hit off. The heroine is a pure, proud young girl, who, to save her mother, a frivolous wanton, marries a Russian prince of notoriously shameful character, and is degraded, in body and spirit, by her bondage, until a Marionic tenor, whom she had Platonically loved, is shot through the throat by her jealous husband. The Princess Veraflies to the extenor's side, and the penultimate chapters describe the bliss of the pair in their home in the heart of the Alps.

Ouida has power as a writer, and in describing scenery and emotions has few equals, but the beauty of her works does not atone for the occasional verging on the obscene. The State vs. Barker.

A Vienna dispatch reports that the Russian embassador has requested of the Austrian government the extradition of a young Russian named Tafa, now in Vienna, charged with implication in the nihilist conspiracy.

A Paris dispatch says that Prince Orloff stated in the Russian church yesterday that he had received a letter from the Nihilist committee threatening him with assassination. Herr Windthorst, ultramontaine, said all were willing to guard the integrity of the fatherland, but the necessity of an increase of the army had not been adequately placed before the house. Herr Bebaan, socialist, declared that if the enemy should threaten Germany the social democrats would join in repelling the invaders.

Berlin, March 2.—The reichstag to-day resolved, in accordance with Herr Von Benningsen's motion, to refer the army bill to a committee of twenty. Herr Stanfflierg, national liberal, said that all parties are agreed as to the necessity of maintaining the defensive power of the country, but thought the hands of future parliaments ought not to be tied.

"Well, I'll tell you about her," replied "Well, I'll tell you about her," replied the manager, "There are three things requisite for a prima donna, three things necessary to ensure success, voice, heart and brains. I am an enthusiastic admirer of Miss Abbott's wonderfully sweet voice. It requires a great musical composer who has a thorough knowledge of writing vocal music to give one an idea of Miss Abbott's voice. Gounod, the composer of 'Faust' and 'Romeo and Juliet,' is, I believe, the best living authority, and he wrote on her score, Voix, juste, claire, egale, lumineuse, bien timbre.

"The recent acquittal of Jeunis Smith and Covert Bennet of the alleged murder of Policerian Smith, of Jersey City, is well known. "Honest Little Emma Abbott' is entitled to the credit of saving the lives of the condemned. Yet such is the case. Down in Wall street, among the 'Bulls and Bears' of New York, Miss Abbott by her own exertions raised—in two hours—over one thousand doliars, more than the amonnt required to give the prisoners a new trial. The result is known, a new trial was granted, and the jury found the prisoners innocent; that is how Miss Abbott saved two lives, and that shows you what sort of a 'Len't she has."

"Miss Abbott certainly possesses more goodness of heart than any artist I have ever heard of," said the reporter.

"I am glad to hear you say so," replied the manager. "Your opinion will be confirmed when you meet her. Well, if it had not been for Emma Abbott's brains America would not today have had 'A Grand English Opera Company,' for I assure you who can successfully sing and act such operas as 'R mee and Jullet,' 'Faust.' It is an opposition that is noisy, but not formidable, and the noise, with hose who have heretofore controlled the machine, but who now find that they are unable to cope with the elaborate proramme laid out by the Grant managers. This was evident in Pennsylvania, more evident in New York, and it will be still nore evident as the choice of delegates to Chicago progresses. A few honest republicans, who oppose Grant not because they iavor Blaine or Sherman, but because they cannot be induced to indorse the hird term movement, appear to have high hopes that the pressure of public pinion will prevent the nomination of deneral Grant at Chicago. It may be confidently stated now that there will be no such pressure of public opinion brought to bear in the selection of the republican delegates. They will be chosen by means of the ordinary party manipulation, and after they are chosen, those who are engineering the Grant movement are not likely to make any close inquiries with respect to the status of public est interest to the south, and to the dem-

The truth is, public opinion will have no opportunity to make itself heard and this fact is well understood by the manfar as the republican organization is concerned, it may be relied upon to indorse whatever is done at Chicago. It is not a matter of principle, but of the spoils of office, and the campaign will resolve itself into a most desperate struggle to retain control of the government. Those republicans who hope that the Chicago convention will show some regard for the opinions of the better class of those who have heretofore voted with the party, seem to forget how elaborately the movement in favor of Grant has been planned, how carefully it has been conducted, and how costly it has been to those who have had it in charge. It was determined on the moment the leading republicans saw how tamely the American people submitted to the inauguration in the highest office of a person who had not been elected; and thus argues the matter:

If print-paper is nine cents per pound at the American end of the bridge, and only six cents at the Canadian end, the difference between prices is exactly 50 per cent. It is worthy of note, in this connection, that the deliberations of the commission have been marked by the utmost harmony. This fact is highly significant, since the people have unbounded confidence in the wisdom, experience and integrity of the commission. For our part, we believe that the rates established will relieve the people and do away with unjust discriminations without injury to the real interests of railroads.

Fact and Argument. Some time ago, THE CONSTITUTION asserted that not one of the defenders of the paper extortion would rise to explain why printing paper is worth nine cents a pound at the American end of a Niagara river bridge and six cents at the other end of the not lengthy structure. This assertion was made in the beginning inion. It is stated that a pephew of General Grant, a young man named Edward Dent, stole a horse and buggy in Washington the other day, and tried to sell them in Baltimore. The sum set apart for the annual peregrination visit of the empress of Austria is 300,000 florins, but by the time she is back in her palace it amounts to 50,000 florins more. This estimate includes cost of hunters, special trains, and the presentation of divers tasteful and costly articles of jewelry to the masters of the packs she hunts with.

Stewart L. Woodford, who carried Lousiana for the democrats last fall by making republican speeches, couldn't get put on the New York delegation to Chicago. This able man will presently begin to rebel.

The Nation will not be in Peril in the New York Tribune office until after Grant is nominated, and then the whole south will be engaged in a desperate rebellion.

While hiding out in the swamps from bulldozers last season, the southern negroes managed to make nearly five million bales of cotton, to say nothing of corn, rice and saken the past fortight will only make him less them.

The untimely effort in the United States senate to remove all disabilities which, under the existing laws, stand in the way of rebel soldiers entering the army of the United States, is calculated to help the republican party in the presidential election. Indeed, so little sense do the democrats show, that we believe with any other candidate than Graht, the republicans would stand a very good chance of success. Against Grant the opposition to a third term among republicans bids fair to be a very potent influence; but the republicans are more sagacious than the democrats, and it is not too late yet for them to drop Grant and take up another man to whom that objection Goes not apply.

The Seal of Primacy.

Timothy O. Howe meant when he wrote to the North American Review of General Grant; "The eager world has set the seal of primacy on him. As Mr. Carpenter holds Mr. Howe's sent in the senate, this contundrum may properly be passet to him. And it may be proper for Mr. Carpente to him. And it may be proper for Mr. Carpente to indicate the precise locality of the general angust person on which the seal was set. In a tute matters it is always well to be exact an definite.

The southern leaders get very angry when northern men venture to say that the rebellion was wrong, but by their words and their acts they are constantly asserting that it was not wrong. That is an assertion which is questioned by the mejority of the American recopie, and wil be for a long time to come. We know the north well enough to say without hesitation, that if the south and its friends do not raise the question, it will be very generally let alone. But if the question is constantly raised by or for the south, the north will inevitably respond.

Cincinnati, March 1.—In reference to a statement in the Philadelphia Times, that Hon. John Sherman had purchased an interest in the Cincinnati Commercial, that paper says to-day that the statement is absolutely untrue and that all shares of the stock of the Commercial, without a single exception, are the property of persons at work in the office.

—Mr. Pursley, of the firm of Pursley & Brice, agents for the "Little Speedy corn sheller" the operations of which are now attracting considerable attention from the farmers, will leave to day for Alabama, and will make a tour of that state in the interiests of the "Little Speedy." Mr. Pursley will be found to be a very companionable gentleman and his corn sheller all that it is professed to be.

The revenue raids which dashed through the mountains destroying liquor in more senses than one have been made the subject of many a heroic story, while every thinking man in Georgia, whose mind was clear of prejudice knew that these stories were wild exaggerations, yet they were calculated to give a wrong impression abroad and were realty slanders on the people of north Georgia. Yesterday a reporter of The Cossitivity of the Colonel H. P. Farrow, United States district attorney, who has just returned from a visit of ten days to the very counties where the trouble has been reported. Knowing that Colonel Farrow is averse to interview on official business, the reporter applied his auger very gently at first. He was pleased to find that Colonel Farrow looked on the matter in a very I beral way. He said he was perfectly willing to tell all he knew about the reported outrages, especially since it was due the people thus misrepresented that the truth of the case be recorded. Col. Farrow says that he has traveled extensively through Hall, Lumpkin, White, Fannin, Pickens, Rabun and other counties through which the raid made its way. He was careful to ascertain all information as to the reported outrages. He had seen the reports in sensational papers of how the brave, patient men in the raid had toiled through the mountainsers' rifles. Colonel Farrow, like many others, had been surprised that all this constant firing had done no harm. If the men of north Georgia are dexterous in any practice they are so in the use of their rifles. It was then evident that most, if not all of this firing had been on paper and with lead pencils instead of rifles.

Colonel Farrow says that he has the concurrent testimony of men on the road and citizens living along the route it passed that from the time it left Gainesville all the way through its march until it came back to Gainesville, there was not a single shot fired at the officers. There were only two shots fired and both of these were from men in the raid. Young Bolton was carrying hi and both of these were from men in the raid. Young Bolton was carrying his gun loosely against his saddle when it went off and fatally wounded a man named Starnes, who was riding near him. The other shot was also carelessly fired by one of the men in the party. These two shots were echoed through the mountains until they sounded like a continuous and terrible volley which has since been sounding in the columns of various newspapers. Colonel Farrow conversed freely with men of all political opinions and of acknowledged reliability and found that there was really no foundation for these wild and unscrupulous tales. The testimony of citizens is confirmed by false reports were so busily circulated. It was the object of the revenue raiders to glorify themselves and it was also their aim to show that the present administration of the United States authority in Georgia had been so lenient as to allow a spirit of rebel-ion against it to grow up in certain localities.

The people of north Georgia are as law abiding and as peaceable as those of any other section of the state. Colonel Farrow says that in ten days of close observation among them, be saw nothing to indicate the least disregard for authority, state or federal, but on the contrary, found the sentiment of the people in favor of law, order and justice.

Colonel Farrow is a republican and his testimony is therefore all the more valuable. He says he cannot put the matter too strongly and he feels it due to the abused people of north Georgia that at least some of the falsehoods concerning them should

Ransom & Co. vs. Roberts. Claim, from WARNER C. J.

WARNER, C. J.

This was a claim case on the trial of which the jury found the property not subject to the fi. fa. levied thereon. A motion for a new trial was made on the grounds that the verdict was contrary to law. and contrary to the evidence; which was overruled, and the plaintiff excepted. It appears from the evidence in the record, that the judgment upon which the fi. fa. levied on the land was issued bears date 23th of March, 1870. The only evidence before this court duly authenticated by the presiding judge in the court below was the following parol evidence: That Porter, the defendant in fi. fa. bought the land from Sanford in 1818, took a deed to it and went into possession, cul, tivated the field on it until 1834 or 1856, when he turned it out, but continued in

In carefully reading and comparing the analysis of the different vinegars mentioned in that paper, it strikes me that your vinegar appears to be stronger in acetic acid than the other, and in that respect better, furthermore, that the impurities alluded to in the analysis as contained in your vinegar are in remarkably small quantities.

As to the extractive or organic matter three per cent could never be called an adulteration, as no vinegar of commerce can be made perfectly free from organic matter, and three per cent would be inconsiderable and not above the sual amount of organic matter in vinegars.

As to the sulphuric acid, appearing in the analysis, I would call seven hundredth of a per cent an extremely small amount of sulphuric acid in any vinegar, even if it were in its free state, since the laws of England, far instance, permit one per cent of sulphuric acid in vinegar. Besides this, it is not at all demonstrated by the analysis, that the sulphuric, acid contained in your vinegar in the shape is free acid. I therefore honestly believe that it is by all probability combined with some base, probably lime, and will be found originating from the water which is enaboyed in making the vinegar. Respectfully, Ought the levy to have been dismissed on the grounds appearing of record?

The grounds are, first, that the judgment is for eight dollars too muchmore than declared for; secondly, that it is a general judgment to which the party was not entitled, the judgment being based upon attachment, and thirdly, because the affidavit in attachment is only for $192.50, the bond is double that sum, and in such cases at least the excess of the verdict and judgment over the sum attached for is fatal.

LADIES' FINE DRESS GOODS ARE BEAUTIES. CARPET DEPARTMENT

Here is a deed of trust conveying a life estate in lands to Mrs. Corker for her sole and separate use, with remainder over to her children, coupled with a power to life children, coupled with a power to self without the intervention of a court of chancery, should it become necessary at any time, by, and with the written consent of the said Margaret. The trustee is always bound by the limitations declared in the trust, and in the case before us it is provided how, and in what manner the sale may be made so as to divest the title of the cestul que trusts. But it is said that the consent of the life tenant was obtained to the sale of both lots. Admitting this to be true, it is not claimed that it was that consent required by the original grantor in the deed of trust. It is to be observed that the completenant is not a purchaser without notice of the trust, for in his deed to the first lot it is recited and made in appear that Corker was the trustee for his wife and children, and that Mrs. Corker's consent was necessary to a valid title, and yet he accepted the same executed by Corker in his individual name, and without the consent in writing of Mrs. Corker. It is further insisted that the present lot, and about which this litigation arises, was given by Corker in exchange for the first lot by the consent of the tenant for life, and that in pursuance of the said sale and exchange, that he is entitled to a specific performance of the contract because of the same, as also of the improvements made by him thereon.

J. J. Jones; R. O Lovett, for defendant. The "Happy Hearts" is the name of another social club, organized a few evenings since at the residence of Mrs. Reed, in this city, with the following officers: G. W. Terry, president; Miss Daisy Slatter, vice-president; Miss Norms Jackson, secretary; and Miss Fannie Bowers, treasurer. The secretary has on her books a long list of members of the club. The club will hold its next meeting at the residence of Mr. E.

The Tallulah Exeursion. At the last moment, it was ascertained that the excursion of Tallnlah steam fire engine company to New Orleans would not take place. The company was to have left last night. The cause of the failure to go was owing to the fact that excursion rates could not be procured for return tickets for fifty men at $10 per head. A failure to do this was the cause of the company not going and in consequence Atlanta will not be represented at the parade of the New Orleans fire department.

Nothing for many years seems to please the citizens of Atlanta as well as the meri-torious Ghost Show. Hundreds daily are seen at the matinees, and at night only standing room for those who seem so much interested in discovering how spirits are materialized. All should go this week and see the change of programme, for it is so thing very interesting.

The law is that "a power of sale, like all other powers, can be exercised only in the mode, and subject to the conditions, if any, prescribed by the "instrument creating the power. And so, if the sale be directed to be made with the consent of the tenant for life, or of any other person, that consent must be obtained before the exercise of the power. And the court will not decree the specific performance of a contract by the trustees for the sale of the estate, where the required consent had not been given at the time of the filing of the bill." We call attention to the notice from Superintendent Harris, of the Atlanta cotton factory. There can be no further excuse for worthy persons who really desire an opportunity to earn an honest living, longer remaining idle or dependent upon their friends for assistance. The liberality of the factory company in paying wages to persons while learning the business should be appreciated by our people. We understand an expert weaver can make good wages by the piece, from 75 cents to a dollar a day, and we call upon the managers of our benevolent society to see to it that charitable assistance is not given to families where one or more persons in it are able to work. None but worthy and respectable works. None but worthy and respectable works. None but worthy and respectable works and consultation free.
